

4+

Jeff plays by his own rules

While the hens on the farm are busy playing volleyball, Jeff the horse barges in to change the rules of the game. However, the referee decides to give him a second chance...

With this mini-story, children learn about respecting the rules and the importance of team play.

Subjects

Mathematics

Engineering (Visual-spatial intelligence)

Technology

Social skills introduced

Respect for others

Cooperation

Fair play

Further information

In the context of school, respecting the rules is the basis of a positive group atmosphere. Promoting the internalization of the rules favors social skills in children; teachers do a great job in educating kids to put themselves in the other's shoes, to overcome their individualisms and to work together in order to live in harmony.

Suggested age

3-4 years

Difficulty of game

Learning objectives

- Perception of quantity
- Spatial perception (above-below, inside-outside)
- Ordering actions

"Drag Jeff onto the field.
Put him on the side with fewer players!"

Listen to the referee!
Touch the picture where the ball is in the court

Help Jeff learn the rules!
Touch the pictures in the right order

